Real estate investing has always provided a great deal of opportunity for investors. Weve all heard why its an IDEAL investment. Income, Depreciation, Equity, Appreciation and Leverage.

But, is it still a good idea to think of real estate investing real estate as an investment today, in the current market, with all the changes, challenges, bank failures and the whole mortgage meltdown mess?

The answer may surprise you.

There are many opportunities to profit in real estate today. Its possible to purchase homes at huge discounts to what they were selling even as recently as one year ago.

As you know, the whole secret to successful investing is to buy low and sell high, or at least higher than you bought in for!

Today's real estate market offers the perfect buy low, sell higher opportunity, despite falling real estate prices.

Why? Because prices are so very low right now, that you can buy properties at pennies on the dollar and still make money selling them at nickels on the dollar.
